ACTION CAUSES MUCH SURPRISE

House Passes Wool Tariff Bill Over President's Veto.

REPUBLICANS DESERT PARTY

Twenty-one of the Minority Join the Democrats in Passing the Measure the Vote Being 174 to 80—Much Doubt Exists Regarding Senate Concurring in Action—Republican Leaders Are Somewhat Astonished.

Washington, Aug. 14.—With the assistance of six Republicans from Minnesota and fifteen other Republicans the Democrats of the house passed the Underwood-La Follette wool tariff revision bill over President Taft's veto. The vote was 174 to 80.

The Minnesota Republicans who voted to override the executive veto of the wool bill were: Stevens, Steenerson, Davis, Miller, Anderson and Lindbergh. Representatives Volstead and Nye, the other Minnesota Republicans, did not vote. They are at home in the state. Representative Hammond, the only Democrat from Minnesota, voted with his party.

Those Republicans, in addition to the Minnesota, who voted with the Democrats to rebuke the president were:

Representatives Helgeson of North Dakota, Haugen and Woods of Iowa, Akin of New York, Anthony, Young and Rees of Kansas, Noyes and Sloan of Nebraska, Cooper and Morse of Wisconsin, La Follette and Warburton of Washington, Kent of California and Lafferty of Oregon.

On Aug. 13, 1911, the house was presented with a motion to override the veto of President Taft on the wool bill framed along precisely the same lines as the measure considered. The motion was lost by a vote of 227 to 139.

Representative Stevens voted against the motion made on that occasion to pass the bill over the president's veto. He took the ground then that in advance of a report by the tariff board he was content to abide by the judgment of the president.

Six Republicans who opposed the fight of the Democrats to pass the wool bill over the president's veto in 1911 sided with the Democrats. One of them was the St. Paul member. The others were Representatives Anthony, Cooper, Lafferty, Sloan and Reed.

Senate's Action Is Doubtful.

Doubt is expressed that the senate will concur in the action of the house. Not to exceed six senate Republicans will vote to override the president's veto. They are Senators Clapp of Minnesota, La Follette of Wisconsin, Crawford of South Dakota, Gronna of North Dakota, Borah of Idaho and Bourne of Oregon.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the Democratic leader, expressed the opinion that the wool bill would not be called up in the senate.

"It will be a waste of time," he said. "We could not muster a sufficient number of votes to pass it over the president's veto. So I am in favor of letting the matter drop."

Senator La Follette, joint author of the pending wool bill, is bent on getting a vote on the measure. "Let us have a showdown on this proposition," he said. "I do not believe the bill can be passed over the president's veto in the senate. However, that is no argument why a vote should not be had. I believe that every senator should show his hand on wool revision and in this instance the result can be attained only by a vote on the president's veto."

The announcement of Democratic success created a wild scene in the house and amid great confusion the Republican leaders protested that Speaker Clark must count as voting ten members who answered "present" to their names, a ruling which would have defeated the Democratic program by overcoming the five-vote margin and make impossible the recording of the necessary two-thirds vote of the house. This the speaker declined to do.

The vote on the wool bill came as a surprise to the Republican leaders of the house. When they discovered that defection in their ranks was to be expected it was too late to prevent it. Not in the memory of the oldest members of the house has a tariff measure been passed over the president's veto by the lower branch of congress. Neither Speaker Clark nor Majority Leader Underwood could recollect such an occurrence.

CONFEREES CANNOT AGREE

Probably Means End of Sugar Tariff Consideration.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Less than an hour after the wool bill had been passed in the house the conferees on the sugar tariff bill met and disagreed. They determined to report to the house and senate that it had been found impossible to reach a compromise between the Underwood and Lodge-Bristow bills.

This action is expected to mark the end of sugar tariff consideration in the present session and the excise tax bill, which was framed to make up revenues that would have been lost by the reduction of the sugar tariff, also probably will remain in conference when congress adjourns.

AFFORDS RELIEF FOR EMPLOYEES

Senate Passes Postoffice Appropriation Measure.

NEW PARCELS POST SYSTEM

Bill Places Some Restrictions on Employees Joining Labor Organizations but They Have the Right to Appeal to Congress for Redress of Grievances—Measure Goes Back to House With Many Amendments.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The annual postoffice appropriation bill passed the senate at the end of two days' sharp fighting over provisions relating to parcels post, good roads improvement and the affiliation of postal employees with labor organizations.

As it goes back to the house it contains some restrictions upon the right of postal employees to join outside organizations; and an entirely new parcels post system, based on the zone plan, with varying rates for varying distances.

The measure will go into conference with many important differences remaining to be settled. The house provided that no employee of the postal service should be subject to reduction or removal for joining an organization having for its object improvements in conditions of labor or compensation.

After a fight involving the right of government employees to strike the senate approved the house provision in part, but provided that employees should not join an organization "which imposes an obligation or duty to strike or to assist in a strike against the United States." Under the terms of the bill as it passed both houses employees have the right to appeal to congress for redress of grievances.

The Bourne-Bristow parcels post system, which the senate substituted for the flat rate of 12 cents a pound fixed by the house on packages, provides for eight zones, ranging from fifty to more than 1,800 miles, and graduated rate ranging from 5 to 12 cents a pound. The limit of weight is eleven pounds. A rate of 5 cents for the first and 1 cent for each additional pound is provided for rural route and city delivery.

Instead of allowing overtime pay for the service of carriers and clerks in cities the senate adopted Senator Bryan's amendment that when an employee works overtime he should be repaid in "compensatory time" within six days.

Senator Hoke Smith asked for a vote on his amendment to allow publishers of publications issued tri-weekly or less frequently the option of sending second class matter by fast freight at 1 cent a pound, or by regular mail at 2 cents a pound. It was agreed to by a vote of 29 to 28.

BRYAN RAPS THE PLATFORM

Declares Roosevelt Plan for Control of Trusts Impracticable.

Noblesville, Ind., Aug. 14.—W. J. Bryan denounced Theodore Roosevelt's platform regarding the control of trusts as a "step toward socialism" and as "being impracticable," in an interview here.

"Colonel Roosevelt believes in allowing the trusts to exist and he proposes to control them by a bureau in Washington," said Bryan. "The plan is a concentration of power and a step toward socialism. It will be found impracticable. If a municipal franchise corporation can corrupt a city council when the members live among their neighbors how can we hope effectively to regulate a billion dollar monopoly through a bureau at Washington."

NINETEEN NEGROES KILLED

Sixty-four Other Miners Escape in Alabama Explosion.

Abernath, Ala., Aug. 14.—Nineteen negro miners were killed by an explosion in the Abernath coal company's mine here. Forty-six white men and eighteen negroes got safely out of the workings after the blast. Seventeen bodies have been recovered. The explosion occurred 1,200 feet below.

OROZCO ALMOST DESERTED

With Scant 700 Men He Awaits 5,000 Federals.

Juarez, Aug. 14.—His forces scattered over a radius of many hundreds of miles General Orozco, with a scant 700 rebels, awaits here the advance of a federal army of about 5,000.

General Salazar, a rebel, appears to have ignored commands to bring his forces to Juarez. An officer of Salazar's command arrived here to report that his leader, angered by the report of peace overtures by Orozco, has declared himself operating independently.

The federal army, led by Generals Rabago, Sanjines and Tellez, has forced its vanguard far to the north of the Casas Grandes district, reclaiming the Mormon colonies deserted by American residents.

JACOB G. SCHURMAN.

Cornell President Will Be Minister to Greece.

SCHURMAN GOES TO GREECE

President Nominates Educator for Diplomatic Post.

Washington, Aug. 14.—President Taft sent to the senate the nomination of Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university, to be minister from the United States to Greece and Montenegro.

CIGARETTE SMOKING AMAZES OFFICIALS

Internal Revenue Commissioner Compiles Some Statistics.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The people of the United States produced more whisky and rum and smoked more cigarettes in the fiscal year 1912 than ever before in the history of the country, according to the preliminary annual report of Royal E. Cabell, commissioner of internal revenue, submitted to Secretary MacVeagh. The consumption of whisky was exceeded only by the year 1907, but beer drinking fell off by a substantial percentage.

The unprecedented smoking of 11,221,624,084 cigarettes, exceeding the record of 1911 by nearly 2,000,000,000, amazed treasury officials, who were unable to account for the enormous increase.

Stored in warehouses the country over are 263,786,070 gallons of whisky and rum, the greatest amount on record.

The record production of these intoxicants for 1912 was 188,000,000 gallons, or 13,500,000 gallons greater than 1911. The consumption of whisky and rum for 1912 was 133,377,458 gallons, the nearest approach to the record of 134,031,000 gallons in 1907.

The consumption of beer for 1912 was only 62,108,733 barrels, a decrease of over 1,108,000 barrels as compared with 1911.

PROMISES NO ONE FAVORS

Colonel Won't Offer Position for Political Support.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Promises of office are not being made by Colonel Roosevelt in return for support in his campaign, he said.

"I have not promised any office to a single human being," he declared. "More than that I have not spoken to any one on such a subject and no one has even indirectly brought up the subject with me."

The colonel's declaration was the result of a dispatch from Omaha to the effect that, to win the support of Governor Aldrich of Nebraska, he had promised the governor a federal judgeship in the event of his election to the presidency. Colonel Roosevelt said he had never heard of this until he saw the dispatch in the newspapers.

SCHREITER HITTING BACK

Former Detroit Official to Aid Prosecuting Attorney.

Detroit Mich., Aug. 14.—Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Shepherd announced that Edward Schreiter, deposed council committee clerk, who made a complete confession after his arrest with eighteen aldermen in connection with bribery operations, will from now on assist him in prosecuting the aldermen.

"Schreiter is now an attaché of the prosecutor's office. You might call him an assistant without pay," said the prosecutor.

WISCONSIN EDITOR DROWNS

G. D. Young of Park Falls Loses Life on Fishing Trip.

Park Falls, Wis., Aug. 14.—G. D. Young, editor of the Park Falls Herald, while fishing at Butternut lake was drowned by the overturning of the boat. The body was recovered. Young was thirty-four years old and is survived by a wife and two children.

A. E. Kaiser of the firm of Blackwell & Kaiser and also chairman of the Price control board, was in the boat but succeeded in reaching shore.

IMPORTANCE OF POSTOFFICE BILL

Means More to People Than Most Pending Measures.

PARCELS POST AND ROADS.

These Subjects Are of More Vital Interest Than Panama Canal Rates. Many Resolutions Calling for Amendment of the Constitution. Campaign Contributions Bill.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—It is unfortunate in some respects that the postoffice appropriation bill was not brought before the senate at an earlier date, because it is so full of matters that afford debate—debate, by the way, that is of interest to the whole people. Probably no more important subjects have been presented to congress at this session, the Panama canal bill excepted, which deserve so much public attention as those contained in the postoffice appropriation bill. I refer particularly to the parcels post and good roads. And these subjects are of more vital interest to the people than rates through the Panama canal. The one great question in the canal bill is whether the United States is to absolutely control that waterway or whether it will defer to foreign nations.

Roads and Transportation.

Roads and transportation are of supreme importance to the people of the country, more particularly the rural districts which are affected by the roads provision of the postoffice bill and the parcels post. In these positions the people of small means get their linings. Good roads in the farming districts over which rural carriers travel and the cheaper delivery of small parcels are of great moment to the people. During the time the postoffice bill was considered in the senate it was shown that these subjects were of intense interest. There was not sufficient time to give them the consideration which the senate really desired, because other matters were constantly pressed forward with a view of an early termination of a very long session.

Constitutional Amendments.

Our old constitution is in sad need of amendment in many particulars. Judging by the number of resolutions that have been presented in both houses of congress during the closing days of the session. Of course it is not expected that action can be taken on these resolutions now, but it is intended that they shall be considered by the people with a view of securing their help in having them passed. Again I may remark that it is not easy to amend the constitution. Not since the so called war amendments have any been ratified, although two, the income tax amendment and that providing for the direct election of senators, have been before the states for some time.

Mann Not Sensitive.

Congressman Stanley of Kentucky was explaining the report of the steel investigating committee and incidentally throwing around bouquets rather prominently, praising Speaker Clark, Chairman Clayton of the judiciary committee and Chairman Adamson of the interstate and foreign commerce committee for the co-operation they had given him. Jim Mann objected to the "Democratic speech" as a matter of privilege.

"You are too sensitive," said Stanley.

"No," replied Mann, with much deliberation; "whatever else may be said about me, I don't think I can be charged with being oversensitive."

The snickers about the house showed the appreciation of Mann's disclaimer, for he certainly has stood for enough to make a thin skinned man extremely sore.

Corporations Keep Off.

If that Culberson bill preventing corporations from contributing to political campaign committees should pass the corporations should be grateful. It is rather late to have favorable consideration, but it is one of the measures that might be pushed through even with the pressure of other public business.

Lee Opposite Grant.

Congressman Pou of North Carolina wants $250,000 appropriated to erect a statue of General Robert E. Lee to be placed opposite that now in course of construction for General Grant. Pou has evidently not consulted Senator Heyburn. If that bill should ever pass the house we may look for fireworks when Heyburn gets after it. The Idaho senator has strong ideas on these subjects and is not much for extending the olive branch to the south by statutes to Confederate generals.

Predatory Wild Animals.

With the protection which has been afforded useful wild animals it appears that those other animals which live on wild game have also been on the increase. Senator Catron of New Mexico and Congressman Mondell of Wyoming have introduced bills looking to the extermination of predatory wild animals that are destroying the game animals in the west. It was Buffalo Bill who led in the slaughter of buffaloes. Perhaps another of his kind may arise to slaughter the wolves, mountain lions and other animals which are destroying the elk, antelope and other food animals.

SECRETARY MEYER.

Attacks Naval Policy of Democratic House.

MEYER SCORES DEMOCRATS

Secretary Assails One Big Battleship Plan.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer, just returned to his duties from a protracted illness, assailed the naval policy of the Democrats of the house of representatives in a statement made public.

Whether the "pork barrel" is more important than the navy in the minds of the Democrats, the secretary declares, remains to be ascertained after another caucus of the Democratic members.

"The proposition which has been advanced by a Democratic senator to have the United States build the greatest battleship ever constructed," said Secretary Meyer, "is nothing more than an attempt to distract attention from the delinquency of the Democratic party, with reference to the continued efficiency and upkeep of the navy; since what is proposed is nothing more than what is already required of every act of late years making appropriations for additions to the fleet."

POSSES ROUND UP THREE SUSPECTS

Accused of Robbing Saloon Keeper and Wounding Policeman.

Milwaukee, Aug. 14.—After a man hunt, in which 100 armed men participated, lasting twelve hours, three men were captured who are believed to have been members of the party of five bandits who held up a saloon keeper at Waukesha and an hour later fatally wounded a patrolman at West Allis, eleven miles away, when he tried to arrest them single handed.

The police of every city in two counties, the mayors of two cities, two sheriffs and a motorcycle squad of ten men, heavily armed, took part in the chase, which covered every mile of the territory for a radius of fifty miles before the capture was made. The men arrested were trailed for twenty miles by three posses, the one to win the race being headed by former Mayor Walsh of West Allis and directed by Mayor Baldwin of that city.

Four other posses in automobiles were following trails in other parts of the county at the time of the arrest and two hours later had traced the remaining two bandits to Watertown, Wis.

LOCK CASHIER IN VAULT

Yeggmen Take All Money in Cohasset (Minn.) Bank.

Cohasset, Minn., Aug. 14.—After locking Cashier Skoedopole of the Cohasset State bank in the vault two heavily armed safebreakers looted the currency drawers and escaped into the woods surrounding the town with $1,600, all the money in the bank. Skoedopole managed to attract the attention of patrons of the bank, the combination was repeated through the closed doors and the exhausted cashier was released.

A posse of deputies and citizens was organized by Sheriff Riley and the woods in which the robbers are supposed to be hiding have been surrounded. The robbers were not masked.

ROBBED OF COSTLY JEWELS

Sister of German Emperor Loses Gems in London.

London, Aug. 14.—Princess Frederick Charles of Hesse, the youngest sister of the German emperor, was robbed of costly jewelry while starting from the Victorian station for Germany last Saturday.

The princess was surrounded by members of the British royal family and a number of foreign diplomats, who had accompanied her to the railroad station to say farewell and the police authorities took strict precautions to keep outsiders at a distance; but as soon as the train had started the bags containing the valuables were missed.

The police tried to keep the theft secret, but it became known to the public when descriptions of the property, which is priceless, were given out by Scotland Yard.

DIES MARTYR TO SCIENCE

Dr. McClintic Contracts "Spotted Fever" in Montana.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Past Assistant Surgeon T. B. McClintic of the United States public health and marine hospital service died of Rocky mountain "spotted fever," a martyr to the cause of medical science. He was one of the foremost specialists in this deadly malady, which he virtually had eradicated from the Bitter Root valley in Montana.

He had been investigating the fever in the Bitter Root valley for the last two years and so completely had he eradicated the tick which transmits the malady that no case developed there this year until Dr. McClintic himself was stricken.

Dr. McClintic was thirty-nine years old and had been connected with the public health and marine hospital service for fifteen years.

Georgians Lynch Negro Boy.

Columbus, Ga., Aug. 14.—A mob of about forty men here took T. Z. Cotton, alias T. Z. McElhenny, a sixteen-year-old negro, from court officers and lynched him just beyond the city limits. He was accused of killing Cedron Land, a white boy, two months ago.

New York Concerns Will Furnish Record of Deposits.

LIEUTENANT BECKER IS RICH

Within the Last Eight Months Police Officer Accused of Plotting Murder of Gambler Rosenthal Made Deposits of $58,845 in His Own Name or That of His Wife—His Salary Was $2,250 Per Year.

New York, Aug. 14.—Powerful banking interests, acting through the New York clearing house committee, came to the aid of District Attorney Whitman in his efforts to lay bare the alleged corrupt alliance between the police and the gambling fraternity founded on graft and blackmail.

A virtual command was given by the committee to all banks in the clearing house to furnish the district attorney with a record of deposits they may have received from any of the high police officials whom the district attorney suspects of having been collectors of blackmail from the disorderly elements of the city.

As a result records showing that within the last eight months Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal and accused of gambling graft, has made bank deposits of $58,845 in his own name or that of his wife were placed in the hands of the public prosecutor.

These deposits, the records show, were first made in November, 1911, shortly after Becker became head of the strong arm squad of gambling raiders, and continued during the time that Jack Rose says he was collecting graft for Becker and until after his arrest.

The district attorney has been promised records of Becker's deposits in four other banks which did not have time to go over their accounts and he has discovered also that Becker has an amount of stocks, bonds and other securities locked up in separate safety deposit vaults.

Becker's salary as a police lieutenant was $2,250 a year. The aid of the clearing house committee was proffered to Mr. Whitman after it became known that his representative had been finding some difficulty in tracing Becker's bank accounts and those of other policemen.

Bankers Anxious to Assist.

Mr. Whitman was assured by the bankers that they were anxious, as public spirited citizens, to have the police force purged of grafters and that they would give him every aid in their power.

The district attorney has received information that Becker may have put money away in several banks outside of the city. If difficulty should be encountered in obtaining records the New York bankers have promised to use their influence to procure the production of such records.

It became known that the district attorney is holding for presentation to the grand jury in due time evidence by which he expects to convict four police inspectors on the charge of collecting blackmail from gambling houses and disorderly resorts. These four men are all aware, it is said, of the nature of the evidence and have been making every effort to cover their tracks.

Thus far the state's investigators have uncovered bank accounts of two of them totaling $75,000. The prosecutor expects, however, with the aid of the clearing house officers to unearth bank accounts of all four, which are expected to disclose some surprisingly large fortunes, in one case an accumulation of nearly $1,000,000.

The expected murder indictments by the grand jury were not handed down, owing to the time taken up by testimony of various witnesses. One of these was Jack Rose, who, it was learned, held the jury spellbound for two hours when he repeated, in an oratorical flow of excellent English, the confession of his part in the murder plot and his alleged graft relations with Lieutenant Becker, which already had been made to District Attorney Whitman in writing.

Newspapers that advertise cut rates in advertising, be it legal or other classes, are adopting a plan that no sensible business man would think of. With everything in the line that the publisher and printer has to purchase to produce his newspaper and his output of job work going up in price and a reduction from him to his customers is a condition that can be found in no other class of business. Men seldom cut the price of their wares below the living stage even to get business, and still you will find newspapers that are published simply for the pleasure of it, evidently, if the fact that they will take space fillers at any price is a criterion. A cheap price usually means cheap service—which is dear at any price.

BOOSTS FOR BRAINERD
Atty. Geo. H. Gardner Tells Duluth Herald What a Good Town Brainerd Is Under the large caption "Business Boom in Brainerd," the Duluth Herald gives the following interview secured from one of our prominent citizens who is spending a few days on business in the Zenith City:
"George H. Gardner, the lawyer of Brainerd, who is at the new St. Louis hotel, said today that the Cuyuna range metropolis is enjoying the most prosperous period in its history.
"The pay roll of the Northern Pacific shops alone," he continued, "is more than $70,000 a month. Mining operations all about Brainerd are very active and add thousands monthly to the money disbursed in the city. Good ore bodies have been proved up inside the city limits and new strikes are being made by diamond drilling close to Brainerd.
"There is no question about the extension soon of the Soo railroad from Ironton to Brainerd, which will give Brainerd three railroads, the other two being the Northern Pacific and the Minnesota & International. Extensions of the last named road are projected.
"Crow Wing county is undergoing rapid agricultural developments and this is helping Brainerd's prosperity. The leading hotels are crowded and are turning guests away almost nightly."
Mr. Gardner was born in Brainerd. His father was one of the first locomotive engineers of the Northern Pacific railroad.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh of the middle ear) if it cannot be cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces (tarsi) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. News of Tourists Visiting City—Local Items—Trade Notes From the Garages

H. W. Menning, of St. Paul, arrived in the city today driving a Firestone-Columbus car. In the party were Mrs. H. W. Menning and son and R. M. Pfister, of Dubuque, Ia. Mr. Menning said the roads were in fine condition. "If your roads leading to Brainerd and the many side trips from your town were only more widely known, there would be many more Twin City people making the trip to Brainerd," said Mr. Menning. In his recent 1,200 mile tour of southern Minnesota, E. S. Houghton did not have a single puncture or breakdown of any kind. Mr. Houghton is a careful driver who goes slowly on the poor roads and makes good time on the good ones. His large touring car is one of the most powerful machines in the city.

Louis Sherlund has placed in position near his plumbing shop a gasoline pumping machine which automatically registers the amount the hauffeur or auto owner purchases. A long rubber hose makes the connection between pump and car tank. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Claggett, of Iontevideo, have been the guests of Deputy County Auditor and Mrs. Harry Treglowny. Mr. Claggett made his journey in his E. M. F. car. During the week he made a trip to the Lake region.

THE LAKES OF KILLARNEY

Made by Crown Scenic Studios Showing Briceken Bridge, Blarney and Edinburgh Castles

The Crown Scenic studios of this city on Tuesday completed and placed in position in the Brainerd auditorium, formerly known as Gardners hall a beautifully painted drop curtain displaying a composite view of Briceken bridge spanning one of the lakes of Killarney, Blarney castle near Cork and the old Edinburgh castle in Scotland.

The view has a frame painted about it and folds of a curtain are painted above and to the sides of the view. The complete length of the painting is 33 feet and the height is 14 feet. There are wings to match measuring five feet each and being 14 feet high.

The curtain was painted from views gathered in Scotland and Ireland by J. S. Gardner and his son, Atorney George H. Gardner. The Crown Scenic studio took these three views and made of it a beautiful and well balanced composite picture.

The firm has its headquarters at 508 Laurel street. They make a specialty of painting high class theatrical scenery and in the short time that they have been established in Brainerd they have executed many commissions entrusted to them in a most artistic manner, all their work giving entire satisfaction.

A recent order came from the Majestic theatre and they painted a wood set, front drop screen and wings for this popular Duluth play house. H. St. John is in charge of the decorating department. E. Merchant has charge of the sales force and has three men on the road soliciting orders, covering North and South Dakotas, Minnesota and Montana. The firm also makes the Crown projecting screens for moving picture shows.

Mr. Merchant left last night for Akeley where he has a contract painting new scenery for the theatre there. He is also figuring on a curtain at Park Rapids. Few people in Brainerd realize that a new industry has come to Brainerd from Chicago, and that the firm is working most energetically and that its product is bringing Brainerd to the attention of the theatrical world.

A little business and cooperation is all they ask in Brainerd. Their work is of an exceptionally good character and if business conditions warrant it, the firm will maintain its headquarters in Brainerd.

INDIAN CHIEF WAS KILLED BY RELATIVE

History Contradicts the Story Given Out at Ashland Concerning the Murder of Chippewa Indian

THE NOTED CHIPPEWA CHIEF

Eloped With a White Woman From Washington and Brought Her to His Wigwam

The Little Falls Transcript publishes the following in connection with the story of the murder of Hole-in-the-day in this county many years ago, and in contradiction to the Ashland story just given to the public: "The story given out from Ashland, Wis., said to have been obtained from an old Indian, and bearing on the murder of Chief Hole-in-the-day is not borne out in the history of the killing as given in the History of the Upper Mississippi Valley. The Wisconsin story was to the effect that the murder was instigated by early white residents of this section. History claims the murder was the result of an Indian's desire to 'get even.' We give below the view taken by historians:

On the 15th of May, 1850, with two or three associates, he came down to the cave in the western suburbs of St. Paul, crossed the river in a canoe, and meeting some Sioux from Kaposia, killed and scalped one of them. The St. Paul Pioneer of the 23rd of May has the following paragraph: 'A gentleman just down from Fort Gaines (afterwards called Ripley) says that on his way down he met the Chippewa chief, Hole-in-the-day, with the scalp of the young Sioux Indian which the brave took last week in this neighborhood, divided into quarters. He was in fine feather. At night he and his followers had a scalp dance. In his descent on the Sioux, in the short space of twenty-four hours he marched eighty miles, committed the murder and started home again.

About the time of the close of the war he happened to be in Washington on business and by his boldness and vanity impressed a servant girl of the National hotel, where he stopped. The girl went to her sister's, in the suburbs of Washington, and obtained a Saratoga trunk which belonged to her, and told her sister that she was going with a lady to the sea-side.

The next day a sensational paragraph appeared, mentioning that Hole-in-the-day, a wealthy Chippewa chief, had married a white girl. She, however, eloped with him, and he brought her to his home near the Chippewa agency, where he had several Indian wives, and treated her with uniform kindness.

In the afternoon of the 27th of June, in company with another Indian, he left his home in a one-horse buggy for the Chippewa agency, and from thence to Crow Wing. Some Chippewas from Leech lake, not long after he left, came to the agency, and finding that Hole-in-the-day had gone to Crow Wing, they secreted themselves in a copse, near the road by which he would return.

As he was riding by, one of the Indians secreted fired both barrels of a shot gun, and he fell dead from the buggy. His body was dragged to the side of the road and, after taking his gold watch and some of his clothing, the murderer, with a companion, jumped into the buggy and rode to the chief's log house, where they told his wives that Hole-in-the-day was killed. The house had a half story above the main room, and there the infant, a boy by the white wife, was sleeping on their arrival. As one of the Indians went up the steps the mother feared the child would be killed, but the Indian soon returned, with some articles he had taken, and departed.

The murderer was said to have been a relative of Hole-in-the-day, and was angered because he was not recognized as a sub-chief. The body of the chief was buried in the Roman Catholic church of Crow Wing. His white widow, with her child, afterwards went to Minneapolis, where she married a respectable white man.

Angry the woman walked across the floor while the shoemaker listened to her unimpassioned tread.
"You hear that?" she said. "Creak, creak all the time. The shoes will drive me crazy. Will you give me my money back?"
"I'm afraid I can't do that," he said, "but I'll tell you what I will do. I will take one of those shoes back and give you another that will squeak in tune with the one you have left."—New York Press.

Tin.
Who first found tin? There is a legend among the Cornish miners that St. Piran, an Irish hermit, was the discoverer. His ancient church in the parish of Perranzabuloe, in Cornwall, laid bare of sand by the sea many years ago, has recently been repaired. Cornish miners still keep the feast of St. Piran, who, according to the fable, first found tin, forgetting that their forefathers had long previously sold it to the Phoenicians. Possibly the legend points to the fact that this Irishman was a skillful metallurgist.

NEW COIN TURNSTILES

To be Used at the Minnesota State Fair for the First Time This Year

J. Will Bates of Minneapolis, a successful inventor of many practical appliances, has perfected a coin turnstile in which the state fair management has so much confidence that it has decided to install twenty-six of the machines for use the coming fair. Coin turnstiles have been in successful use at many of the big fairs for some time but it is believed that the Minneapolis genius has a device which will more than compete with the other kinds.

Mr. Bates came to Minneapolis in 1872 and was a successful operator in real estate and other ventures when the "boom" general in the northwest broke and it found him suffering from a nervous affliction, which made it impossible for him to recover his losses at that time. But Mr. Bates has been able to devote considerable time to the working out of many intricate problems, despite his affliction, and from the latest "child of his brains" it is expected that he will reap ample rewards. He is the inventor of a bicycle pump, which proved so effective that it has been adopted to automobile purposes.

He has lived almost continuously in Minneapolis for forty years. "Will" Bates has scores of friends who admire him for his talent and qualities. For a time he lived in the east and had an opportunity of taking up with Edison the discussion of underground electrification. Mr. Bates sold his plan to a big company for a handsome consideration.

"Will" Bates was at the fair last year and after watching the five coin turnstiles then in use he decided to work up a scheme of his own. The result is that he has worked out two models. One turnstile is of the convertible type and the other is duplex. The former kind, of which there will be 24 machines put in use, allows for admittance by the insertion of either 25 or 50 cent pieces at different times. It does away with the need of two machines, where one will do. During the day, at the state fair, the Bates machines will be adjusted to take in 50 cent pieces. At 6 o'clock by the application of a screw driver, they will be changed to accept 25 cent pieces. The two machines of the duplex model, which will be installed, allow for the admittance of both adult and minor, without any change in mechanism, one slot being for 25 cent pieces and the other for 50 cent pieces. These machines are unlocked by the operator by the use of a lever, as soon as the coin drops.

There will be money counters at the fair, but visitors will save time and labor if they bring along "quarters" and "halves."
The coin turnstiles will be established at all the outside gates and at all such important entrances as the grandstand, bleachers and pavilion.

THE GREATEST EVIL.

The Persian author Saadi tells a story of three sages—a Greek, an Indian and a Persian—who in the presence of the Persian monarch debated this question: Of all evils incident to humanity which is the greatest? The Grecian declared, "Old age oppressed with poverty." The Indian answered, "Pain with impatience," while the Persian, bowing low, made answer, "The greatest evil, O king, that I can conceive is the couch of death without one good deed of life to light the darksome way."

COVER CROP NEEDED

Rainy Weather Causing Young Trees to Grow Excessive Wood

"The enterprising orchardist who is clean-cultivating his orchard or who has grown truck crops among his trees in the early part of the season, faces danger this year unless he uses some desirable cover crop in the later part of the season," says K. A. Kirkpatrick, horticultural specialist, University Farm, St. Paul. "The rainy weather at the present time," he says, "is causing the young trees to make an excessive wood growth. Unless protracted dry spell should come on soon, these trees will enter the winter in a very bad condition to withstand cold. The results will be more or less aggravated winter injury and the consequent permanent weakening of the tree."

To obviate this difficulty, Mr. Kirkpatrick believes, it is desirable that cultivated orchards should have a cover crop sown on them. Several plants are used for this purpose. Among them are millet, almost any of the ordinary small grains, buckwheat, peas, soy beans and vetch. The latter three are usually preferred when the soil is excessively light and there is a desire to build up the nitrogen prevalent in this section, the orchards rather tending to the opposite condition.

Probably the best cover crop is oats. This should be sown very thick in the orchard, probably at the rate of three bushels to the acre. The time to do this is about the first or middle of August. The oats will come up in a few days and make a thick, rank growth until freezing weather. By so doing it takes away moisture from the trees and causes them to ripen up their wood in early preparation for the winter. This practice also gains another object; the growth of oats is left on the orchard through the winter and helps to catch and retain the snow. This acts as a blanket to the soil and prevents deep freezing which augments the winter injury. In the spring this growth is worked into the soil by the disk or cultivator and helps to keep a good supply of humus present in the orchard. If your orchard has been cultivated, this plan should be followed this season.—Minnesota Farm Press News.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous For Brainerd People to Neglect

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they so often get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health will be gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease often follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, which are so strongly recommended right here in this locality.

Mrs. Hattie Wandrie, Crosby, Minn., says: "For the past two or three years I suffered a great deal from pains through the small of my back and sides. I was also subject to headache and my whole system seemed to be disordered. The kidney secretions were unnatural and caused me much annoyance. I finally procured a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and in a short time after beginning their use, I felt better in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement."

CLOVER SEED SCARCE

Probable High Price Should Induce Farmers to Save Seed Crop

The severe drouth last summer and the hard winter which followed it so injured the clover fields of the Northwest that clover seed will be scarce next season, and will undoubtedly demand as high a price as it did this spring. Some paid as high as $25 for 100 pounds of clover seed this spring, which was very profitable price to the one who was fortunate to have some for sale.

Anyone who has a good field of clover will obtain a profit by cutting it for seed, if he is certain that the heads are well filled. An ordinary crop of clover will yield from one to two bushels per acre, and it is not uncommon in Minnesota to obtain four or five bushels per acre. Figured at about $15 a bushel it can be seen what a daily profit may be obtained, even when a very common crop has been harvested. It will pay the farmer to look over his second growth of clover early this fall before he decides to use it for anything else, and see how well the heads are filling.

A crop of clover seed may be harvested in several ways. Some persons use a common grain binder with a flax dump attachment, which leaves the clover in gables. Others use a self-rake reaper. Where only a small crop is to be cut, it may be advisable to use a common mower and roll the swath out of the way before making the next round. If a team is permitted to walk on the clover, especially if it is dry when cut, many of the heads will be knocked off and the seed will be lost.

Another method of cutting clover for seed is to use a mower with a clover dump attachment. This attachment consists of several long fingers turned in the form of a mold-board on a plow. These fingers roll the swath out of the way, so that a team can pass along the next time without trampling on the clover. It is often advantageous to cut clover for seed when it is damp with dew or light rain. If it is very wet, it tangles up and becomes hard to handle, but when it is moist the scattering of seed is avoided.

It is advisable to hull the clover seed as soon as the straw is thoroughly dry. If it is found impossible to do this, the clover may be stacked. If it is stacked outside, the stack must be covered with canvas, boards, or slough hay, as it will not shed water. If a huller cannot be secured, much of the seed can be threshed out with a threshing machine equipped with a sharp cylinder and concave teeth. It is practically impossible to secure all the seed, however, unless a huller is employed.—O. M. Olson, Extension Division, Minn. Agricultural College.

Price of Ignorance.

Many children are never taught to think and to reason out every question in a fair minded, reasonable manner. That is why we meet with and suffer from so many unreasonable and un-reasoning men and women, * * * who are governed by prejudice, impulse and personal feelings, instead of by thoughtful and careful consideration. They do not see what is right because they do not know how to judge without prejudice.—Our Four Footed Friends.

IMPROVEMENT WITHIN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS

"At five months our baby weighed thirteen pounds, while at eight months she weighed only twelve. We fed condensed milk and different kinds of foods and still the child got worse. One doctor said she could not be helped; two others gave me very little encouragement. At last I procured a bottle of Mellin's Food and fed it to her according to directions. She showed an improvement within twenty-four hours after the first feeding and has not been sick a day since. In the three months I have used Mellin's Food the baby has gained six pounds."
